

Making Sense of Oklahoma's Climate One-Day Climate Workshops Across Oklahoma

The Oklahoma Climatological Survey (OCS) is conducting free one-day Climate Workshops this fall. These workshops, offered at several locations around the state, will provide basic information about our climate and weather, describe causes of climate variability and change, and help you find additional sources of information.

To register for one of the workshops near you, please print out and complete this form as soon as possible, since seating is limited. The form may be faxed to (405) 325-2550, mailed to the address below, or scanned and emailed to nicole@mesonet.org. All forms must be received at least one week before the date of the workshop you would like to attend. You will receive confirmation of registration via email within two business days of receipt of your fax, mail, or email.

As part of a federal grant from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, we will be conducting an evaluation of the effectiveness of these workshops. Your participation in the evaluation is completely voluntary, but your feedback will help us to better identify strengths and weaknesses of the presentations and activities. If you agree, we will contact you several months after the workshop to request additional feedback. Of course, you may participate in the workshop without taking part in the evaluation activities.

Please check one of the following:

___ Yes, I agree to participate in the evaluation

___ No, thanks. I do not want to participate in the evaluation
